FIREMAN SAVES MODEL VICTIM

ANOTHER FEW MINUTES and the cool expression on the face of this miss would have disappeared. And it's understandable, for she's a wax model being carried from a blazing dress shop in Washington, D. C. Several thousand dollars worth of clothing were destroyed when a customer's cigarette ignited some drapery. (International)

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

GERMAN HELD VALMONTONE. astrate the great Cassina highway 20 miles southeast of Rome, was the outstanding strategic prize for which a furious battle was being fought today, as the Allied offensive from the Anzio beachhead continued to surge forward.

Nazi retention of Valmontone was a matter of death or capture for a host of their badly mauled troops which are falling back towards the Eternal City from the shattered Adolf Hitler line. This town forms a barrier across Via Cassina (frequently referred to as Route No. 6) which is the chief remaining avenue of escape for the retreating enemy since they lost the Apennine way to the south.

But possession of Valmontone meant even more than that. Its loss by the Hitlerites would be a heavy blow to their defense of Rome—indeed they intend to defend it to the last.

No wonder then that as dawn broke over the battle-field the Germans were counter-attacking furiously from Valmontone with flame throwers in an effort to hold open this route for their comrades, and that Fifth army beachhead troops were driving straight through this hellish assault until they were close to the outskirts of the town. Valmontone decidedly was a point worth watching as a key to Allied progress.

Via Cassina isn't, of course, the only avenue of escape for Nazi Field Marshal Kesselring's retreating troops. About 25 miles along this highway to the south-east lies the big and also strategic

CITY TO HONOR WAR DEAD AT TUESDAY RITES

Programs at Hope, Grandview Cemeteries Will Follow 10 A.M. Parade

Salem will pause tomorrow to honor the memory of its war heroes of present and past conflicts, holding services at Hope and Grandview cemeteries following a parade which is scheduled to move from the downtown corner of E. State st. and S. Broadway at 10 a. m.

Atty. General L. Lafferty of Lisbon will be the speaker at Hope and Rev. K. C. Laughbaum of New Springfield will talk at Grandview cemetery. The two groups participating in the two programs will march together through the business district but will separate at the postoffice to proceed to their respective destinations.

The program at Hope cemetery is being arranged by the American Legion and Sons of Union Veterans. Chaplain for the service there will be Rev. C. F. Evans, pastor of the Christian church. Also on the program will be recitations "Flanders Field" by Jacqueline Jensen and Inez Jones and "The Gettysburg Address" by William Vignovich.

The readings have been added to the program to replace the usual ceremony at the soldiers monument which has been conducted in past years by the Women's Relief corps which has abandoned its usual program.

Everett Rich of the American Legion is marshal of the day and Price Cope, sons of Union Veterans, has been named president of the day.

The service at Grandview cemetery will include a talk by Rev. Laughbaum and the ritual honoring veterans. The Veterans of Foreign Wars have charge of the program there and will use their own chaplain in the ceremony.

The parade will form on S. Broadway at 9:30 and will move north to E. State st. at 10 a. m.

Led by the High school band, the line-up will be as follows: second, marshal and his aides; third, the Sons of Union Veterans, colors and firing squad; fourth, service men and women home on furlough; fifth, American Legion, its auxiliary and the Sons of American Legion; sixth, city officials, speakers, chaplains and the president of the day; seventh, G. A. R., Women's Relief corps, and the Daughters of Union Veterans; eighth, school children; ninth, Girl and Boy Scouts.

Indiana To Name Republican Slate

(By Associated Press)

Indiana Republicans head the week's state activity, meeting in convention Friday to select 29 delegates expected to be unopposed, and also selecting nominees for a senator and governor.

Alabama has two Democratic runoff races tomorrow, one between Rep. Carter Manasco and J. H. Deason, both of Jasper, in the seventh district; and the other between Rep. John Newsome and former Rep. Luther Patrick, both of Birmingham.

Moynihan Democrats in convention Friday will select 18 national convention delegates who, state leaders say, will be instructed to vote for the fourth term if there is evidence President Roosevelt will accept the nomination.

Kansas Democrats are due to add their 16 votes to the fourth term column Saturday. It long ago reached a total clinching a first ballot nomination if Mr. Roosevelt runs.

Weekend developments included: North Carolina Democrats nominated former Gov. Clyde R. Hoey for the senate seat held by Robert R. Reynolds, retiring, and chose R. Gregg Cherry, Gastonia lawyer, as their candidate for governor. The state usually is overwhelmingly Democratic.

Connecticut Democrats, with loud acclaim for President Roosevelt, added their 18 convention votes to the fourth term cause.

Utah's 10 Democratic delegates likewise were instructed to vote for the President and to support Sen. Elbert Thomas, a favorite-son candidate for vice president.

Held In Stabbing

LISBON, May 29.—Oscar Nightingale of R. D. 1, Salineville, was stabbed by Andres Spaun of West Virginia at the former Charles Patterson farm west of Salineville Saturday night, deputy sheriffs reported. Spaun allegedly stabbed the other after an altercation. Nightingale, who was not seriously hurt, is reported in satisfactory condition. Spaun is being held for trial by grand jury.

Two Soldiers Killed

COLUMBUS, May 25.—Corp. William Venable, 29, of Pomeroy, O., and Pvt. William E. Dillon, 23, of Louisville, Ky., were killed when an army truck in which they were riding overturned near Lockbourne army air base yesterday.

Map Shows Where Germans Expect Allies To Strike

WHILE PRIME MINISTER Churchill was announcing that "the Allies will be able to win the war in the Balkans without any help from Turkey," Nazi sources were making it known that they expected blows from south and southeast Europe. The map indicates some of the moves which German sources said were anticipated. Thus, as the Allied drive in Italy (1) continued successfully, the enemy was reported withdrawing troops beyond Rome and preparing lines extending to the Po River. Berlin reported a "gigantic ship concentration" at Corsica and Sardinia (2) and alerts had been sounded in south France and north Italy. Barbed line indicates Balkan area where Churchill said the crucial battles would come, with Russia (3) ready to continue the Romanian drive and with Tito growing more active daily in Yugoslavia (4). ## DISCUSS ISSUES, BRICKER PLEA

Dewey Comes Closest To Declaring Candidacy at Governors' Rally

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer
HERSHEY, Pa., May 29.—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio last night challenged presidential aspirants to come out in the open and discuss issues as Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York came closer than at any time to saying he is a willing candidate for the Republican nomination for president.

Both are here attending the 36th governors' conference.

Bricker, an avowed candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, declared in a press conference: "I think any candidate going before the people in as critical an hour as this should discuss all the issues vital to his country and pertaining to the office he seeks."

Asked if he referred to Dewey, Bricker replied: "It just happens I don't have the right to do the eliminating."

Dewey told nearly 100 newsmen in an interview that he is doing nothing to discourage talk that he is leading in the pre-convention delegate contest, that this talk has "gone beyond the rumor stage," and he expects to have some suggestions for the Republican platform to be adopted at Chicago next month.

Soldier Makes Query

Earlier, while touring an army camp at Indianstown Gap in a jeep, Dewey was asked by a soldier:

"Governor, are you going to run for president in 1944 or 1948?"

Dewey replied: "I guess I don't have any control over that."

While the New York chief executive said his position on the presidential candidacy question is unchanged, many reporters who attended a press conference at the governors' meeting in Columbus, O., last June recalled that Dewey associates defined his position then a little differently than did Dewey last night.

His associates said last year that anyone starting a movement in Dewey's behalf before the convention would "get a sock in the eye from Albany."

The Arta Snyder Dodge English awards, two checks for $12.50, were won this year by Richard Coubourn and Donald Barnes, Supt. E. S. Kerr made the presentation to the two who were adjudged as having shown the greatest improvement in the correct and effective use of English since entering Junior High.

Gigantic Fleet of Planes Pounds Europe After Heavy Sunday Raids

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, May 29.—A thousand heavy American bombers and 1,200 fighters spanned the length of Germany today, bombing two aircraft factories in Poland and four in central and eastern Germany while other fleets struck from the south at the Vienna and Wiener Neustadt areas.

Early estimates indicated at least 4,200 planes had attacked the Germans from Britain and Italy.

As the stunning day of bombardment drew to dusk, it appeared that the Allies might have sent out another fleet as large as the record number of 8,000 airplanes which flew Sunday from British and Italian bases.

The predominantly American fleets of warships scoured the face of Europe, bombed the invasion coasts of France and Belgium, strafed the front lines in Italy and reached deep inside Germany, Poland and Austria to tear up hide-away plants of the German aircraft industry.

The Polish factories were at Poznan and Kreisling. Those in Germany were at Leipzig, Tutow, Cottbus and Sorau. The flight to Poznan entailed a round trip of at least 1,450 miles.

Coastal Targets Blasted

Simultaneously, hundreds of lesser American bombers struck heavily and repeatedly at the French invasion coast, bombing bridges, railroads and airfields.

The attacking Fortresses and Liberators split into several spearheads in efforts to confound the enemy defenses. The German radio reported the fleets engaged in a number of sky battles.

The operations on this hot, summer day were in force comparable to yesterday's great outpouring when 6,000 bombers and fighters flew from British bases and 2,000 more struck from Italy, chiefly at the Italian battle area.

Seven heavy bombers were forced

Invasion Waiting Wears Nazi Nerves, Broadcasts Reveal

By JAMES M. LONG

LONDON, May 29.—German broadcasts reflected increased tension in Marshal Von Rundstedt's entire invasion front facing this troop-packed island today as temperatures over the glassy Strait of Dover reached an unofficial 100 degrees shortly before noon.

Nazi commentators asserted that Gen. Eisenhower had missed one favorable invasion date when the tides and weather were perfect and cried out "Germany would prefer for the invasion to come today rather than tomorrow."

That suggested that enemy defenses at least once already had been brought to a nerve-wracking peak of alertness, only to find that Hitler's command had guessed wrong.

A Swiss newspaper, gave a new clue to the defense problem of Von Rundstedt, complicated by railroads tangled and snarled by provisions of Allied bombs. The newspaper said there was increasing fear of a general D-day strike of French railroad workers and that the Nazis were sending in more key transportation officials and workers for key posts.

Nazi Propaganda broadcasts asserted the Allied high command already had passed up its most favorable invasion opportunity because it had found out its legions of men and stupendous array of equipment were not as ready for the great event as it had thought.

Berlin made a wild guess, also, that "Gen. Eisenhower is waiting for fresh troops from America" before giving the go-ahead for the western assault.

Amid much speculation in this invasion capital, Allied authorities said they failed to see how a Berlin-announced meeting between Hitler and the Japanese ambassador to Berlin, Lt. Gen. Hiroshi Oshima, fitted into the picture.

The meeting at Hitler's headquarters, with Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop present, was for consideration of "acute questions of German-Japanese collaboration," the German radio said.

It was hard to see how Japan, currently taking a military beating in the Pacific, could do much "collaborating."

ONLY 17 MILES FROM ROME IN ADVANCE AREA

Allied Forces Make Steady Advance Despite Stiff Enemy Resistance

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, May 29.—Fifth army troops stormed toward four Rome-line strongholds against fierce resistance today, thrusting one wedge within 17 miles of the Eternal City.

Headquarters declared three of 18 German divisions engaged in battle had been virtually destroyed in the broad offensive launched May 11, with more than 15,000 prisoners taken.

Overwhelming Aprilia, once bitterly-contested beachhead fortress, the Fifth punched north within a mile of Campoleone—the closest penetration toward Rome. To the east the Fifth army advanced within 2,000 yards of Valmontone, on the shell-torn Via Cassina, despite flame-throwing German counter-assaults.

Steady artillery fire was pumped onto the Via Cassina, main escape route for eight German divisions being forced back on the front to the southeast.

In between on the Campoleone-Valmontone line, other forces fought in the outskirts of Velletri on the Apennine, and closed upon Lanuvium, four miles southwest, where the Alban hills begin to rise from the Pontine plain.

Repulse Counter Blows

"Despite several sharp German counter-attacks, the Americans are advancing slowly in the direction of Rome," a battlefront dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Edward Kennedy declared.

Meanwhile the Eighth army in the Liri and Sacco valleys to the southeast pushed ahead, breaking down German rear guard stands.

As the sound of the great battle rolled into Rome, the enemy in Valmontone was driven out of the towns of Sermoneta and Bassano, below Boma, which was overwhelmed yesterday. Snipers still were active in the hills beyond this area and Fifth army patrols were mopping them up.

In its northward drive the Fifth army slashed across two of the bitterest battlegrounds of the beachhead fights of last February.

French forces meantime followed up their seizure of Villa Santo Stefano by taking off northward through the hills toward the Liri valley making only casual contact with the enemy and capturing Monte Sierano, 2,400 feet high.

KEEPING THEIR HONOR BRIGHT

Memorial day long since outgrew its original purpose. Its spirit now flows beyond state and national boundaries into the corners of the earth.

It is a day for civilians to make symbolic repayment of their debt to all men who sacrificed comfort, safety and life, itself, to the security of the helpless—a day for renewal of the pledge to keep their honor bright.

There will be, perhaps, a time when men no longer will have need to bear arms in defense of national security. There will be, perhaps, a time when the terms of security will not be in conflict between nations. If that time comes, we shall still remember gratefully on Memorial day the sacrifices of all who did the best they could; they did not know how to do better. We shall honor them not as warriors, but as men who became warriors to restore peace.

They march through our history in an endless procession of glory, their muskets and rifles on their shoulders. They march in homespun, in blue, in khaki. They march in the flying suits and dungarees of the newest war they have been called on to settle. They are the finest we had, the finest we can have and, being fine, they won for us what they sacrificed for themselves. We honor them with out efforts to hasten this war to a speedy conclusion and to save the world from the horror of another.

LEANING ON WASHINGTON

John M. Hancock, who collaborated with Bernard Baruch recently on a study of post-war adjustment policies, believes this country never will get to first base in job-making after the war until it breaks its bad habit of leaning on Washington. The government cannot make employers, and the United States must have more employers, not more public money, to provide enough jobs to keep its employable population busy.

Mr. Hancock was speaking at a dinner honoring winners of the Post War Employment awards; the winners uniformly agreed in their essays on the subject of jobs that private enterprise had to be encouraged. Mr. Hancock pointed out that congress has responsibility for providing the atmosphere in which the country's economy again can become dynamic.

It is not pleasant to think about at this time, but if the war ended tomorrow the United States, as far as the political atmosphere which was stifling business before the war boom began is concerned, would be back where it was between 1936 and 1940. There has been much talk, but little action—and the talk has not been taken seriously by the persons it was intended to convince. Only the war boom has concealed the fact that the Roosevelt administration still is dominated by men who are skeptical, ignorant, or both, about private enterprise—men who will try to supplant private enterprise and the jobs it could make in a more favorable atmosphere with an ever-widening, ever-tightening political control.

WHAT IS THE JOKE?

At his Friday press conference, correspondents report, President Roosevelt again was in high spirits when asked whether he had reached his decision on being a candidate for a fourth term. After a great deal of hearty laughter, he said "time would tell."

It is impossible to understand what is behind this presidential attitude. Mr. Roosevelt knows there are enough Democratic delegates pledged in his favor to assure him the nomination. He knows that he can have it if he wants it. He knows there is no other Democratic candidate in sight for the presidential nomination. He knows the party is laying its plans on the assumption he will be the candidate. He knows he has been selected by the party organization's radical left-wing and that refusal to accept nomination under the circumstances would leave the political coalition which has been supporting him, and which he, in turn, has been supporting, high and dry.

To say that he is a candidate for his fourth nomination would be, under the circumstances, merely a formality. It would dignify the pre-convention proceedings. It would perform for his coalition the same service performed for the Republican party when Gov. Bricker rejected the tantalizing technique of playing coy and hard-to-pin-down and announced in a declarative statement that he was a candidate for his party's nomination. Yet, Mr. Roosevelt continues to see something funny in his refusal to admit that he is what everybody believes him to be—a candidate for re-election. What is the joke? If there suddenly has come to be something funny about aspiring to occupy the White House, the people who support that precious institution want to know about it.

APPIAN WAY

The tactical nature of the Italian campaign has been transformed from that of terrain favoring defense to terrain favoring the offense by Allied success in reaching the Apennine way. It is the grandfather of the good roads movement.

This queen of long-distance highways, precursor of the unobstructed roads only now being developed in the United States, was built more than 300 years before the beginning of the Christian era. Not long after the original right-of-way was developed, it was paved. Though scarcely any traces of the original road remain, the present highway, which has been invaluable to the Germans in defensive operations south of Rome, still follows the line decided on by Appian Claudius Caecus in 312 B. C.

The road's military importance, like its historic and civil importance, is derived from its utilization of the favorable grades on the eastern coast of the peninsula south of Rome. Allied forces now headed northward from Anzio beachhead have a comparatively level region before them that continues into the plains surrounding Rome. For the first time in their hard campaign, they will be able to utilize the mobile armor which turned the tide of battle in their favor on the plains of Africa.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, May 30.

WHILE THE affairs of this day may be speeded up to high tempo, and the energies keyed to extreme nervous tension, yet there is little promise of any great or lasting progress, especially as to business, financial or professional pursuits. Decisions and agreements should be made swiftly and with shrewd and sagacious grasp of strange factors or irregularities, both baffling and bewildering. The affairs of the young and romantic are likely to reach high levels of dramatic adventure. Cultivate the good will of elders and superiors.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for the descent of a whirlwind. A set of circumstances, radical, uprooting and devastating, in which business affairs may speed to high tempo, challenging to nerves, emotions and sound acumen is foreseen. However, the forces and facilities should be under excellent stimuli for a quick grasp of surprising situations, and those demand sound and clever decisions and agreements, in which there may be little cooperation from influential sources. There should be pleasant compensations for the young.

A child born on this day may be exceptionally versatile and talented, although erratic, temperamental and unorthodox in its skills, ideas and desires, having little tolerance from its superiors.

You have only to compare results in two major theaters to realize the importance of heavy armament. In Burma, where we are properly equipped, we are more than holding our own. IT WOULD gladden the heart of my old surgical chief, Dr. A. J. Ochsner, to hear about the decrease in the death rate from acute appendicitis.

Acute appendicitis has always been one of the great killers. And Dr. Ochsner used to preach and cry in the wilderness that the cause of the bad results was not so much the disease itself but the ignorance and carelessness and the bad management of doctors and surgeons and nurses and the patient themselves. The patients themselves had no right to be expected to know better, but in those days when there was no war nearly everybody who had appendicitis could get a doctor and so it was mostly the doctor's fault.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The two things that Dr. Ochsner harped on were, first, never give a patient with acute appendicitis a cathartic or anything by mouth, and, second, there is an early stage when it is safe to operate for acute appendicitis and then there supervenes a stage when it is very dangerous to operate, but if the patient is carried through that stage by proper treatment it is again safe to operate.

Methods of Treatment
I can testify that while the general mortality in Chicago at that time from acute appendicitis was over 10 per cent of cases, Dr. Ochsner's own mortality following the use of his methods was less than 1 per cent. His methods of treatment when he saw the patient in the stage too dangerous to operate were very simple—keep the patient at rest, with an icebag on the abdomen, use morphine and give nothing whatever by mouth except occasionally a teaspoonful of warm water, until the temperature and pulse had been normal for four days.

The recent decline in the appendicitis death rate has been spectacular, as pointed out by the Statistical Bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. During the last four years the death rate has been cut in half among the company's industrial policyholders; on top of a reduction of nearly 30 per cent in the preceding decade. Washington, the nation's capital, between the years 1930 and 1940 showed a decline of 77 per cent.

The two factors ascribed as the cause of the improvement are the education of the doctors and the public about the dangers of the use of laxatives and cathartics, and the use of the sulfa drugs in the surgical treatment of cases of suppurative appendicitis. Rupture of the appendix accounts for four-fifths of the deaths from appendicitis and the cause of rupture is usually the use of laxatives in the presence of an early stage in an attack of appendicitis.

Avoid Taking Laxatives
The average person will say—"Well, how am I to know whether I have appendicitis, so that I will refrain from taking a laxative? I am not a diagnostician."

The answer is very simple—never take a laxative for an acute bellyache. An acute pain in the abdomen, coming out of a clear sky in a person in previous good health, or what is called an acute attack of indigestion with nausea, vomiting, pain or discomfort that starts in the pit of the stomach and gradually moves downward, especially if there is a fever and tenderness is nearly always appendicitis. The only other alternatives are a gallstone attack or something indigestible you ate, and a cathartic will not do the first any good, and Nature will eventually cure the second by diarrhea. So the rule never give a laxative in the face of an acute bellyache. This is especially true of babies and young people. From 1929 to 1931 the death rate per 100,000 for appendicitis was 12 in those from one to four years of age, and 15 for those from 10 to 25 of age. Appendicitis is predominantly a disease of young people.

A Model is Murdered ~ BABS LEE

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE
"While you're checking up," Argus continued, "try to do it so they don't get suspicious."

"Now you're telling me how to conduct my investigations? Maybe I ought to give you my badge, too," Argus ignored the Inspector's irritation.

"I know that Bill Carstairs phoned Syria around 11:30 on Monday night, but I should also like to know whether he reached her."

"What's the phone got to do with it? How can I ask questions if I don't know why I'm asking them?" Argus explained in detail about the machine he had found.

"And so," he said, "unless I'm very much mistaken a phone call played an important part in this murder. I'd also like to know if any one placed an order for that theatrical company for that beard."

"Anything else?" Grange asked. "What did you find out yesterday afternoon about the murder of Cynthia Lane?"

"I talked to the bellboy who delivered that message to Flagg. He claims that a woman called him and gave him the message. But he said that her voice was peculiar and he guessed that she had been crying. So far I haven't been able to discover whether any one saw Miss Lane telephoning. She didn't use the phone in her room."

"And Derry Carstairs?" "We had to let her go. As for that husband of hers, we haven't been able to locate him yet. He hasn't been home since Monday night."

"Just keep trying all the bars," Argus suggested, "and you'll unearth him. How about his old man?"

Grange chuckled. "That's a hot one," he said. "Remember my telling you about that robe we found in Syria's apartment? Well, we traced it to Carstairs, Senior. When we tried to question him he practically had us thrown out of his office. But we'll get him yet."

"Where was he yesterday, when Miss Lane was shot?" "In an office of a business friend. The secretary vouched for him. Been any attempts on your life yet."

No Time For Comedy
TOPEKA, Kas.—The Holyrood rural high school district of Kansas took exactly 7 minutes 4½ seconds at its annual school meeting to re-elect a treasurer and approve a $20,000 budget.

Argus had ordered drinks. "Yes, it does seem too bad."

"You know," chattered Donna. "Mr. Flagg didn't get Syria her movie contract and she wasn't going to pay him any commission. They had a fuss about it." She noticed Argus' brow contract. "Oh dear, maybe I shouldn't tell things like that. You being a detective and all."

"You couldn't have poked a more sympathetic listener, my dear," said Argus. The bartender set down the drinks. Donna picked hers up and sipped it, at the same time looking deeply into the detective's eyes.

Just at that instant a familiar voice said: "Well, if it isn't Sherlock Holmes and his grandmother." Ellen was laughing at him from under a huge brown hat.

Finley Urges Residents To Insulate Homes Now

Most home owners breathed a deep sigh of relief when they shut down their heating equipment this spring, according to R. B. Finley of the Home Insulation Co.

But, it isn't one minute too early to start thinking seriously about next winter, warned Finley whose firm is local headquarters for Johns-Manville "blown" home insulation, because all indications are that fuel supplies will not be one single bit more plentiful than they have been.

As a matter of fact, home owners will probably be faced with the problem of getting along with even less fuel than has been available.

An excellent investment in normal times, the need for installing rock wool insulation is now doubly urgent. Many Salem residents whose homes were insulated last fall report fuel savings ranging as high as 40 per cent.

For a free estimate phone 3141, Finley Music Co., 132 S. Broadway.

Old Reliable Dairy's
Ice Cream Still A-1

The Old Reliable dairy on W. Pershing st. is enjoying a lot of favorable comment since it has been able to continue making ice cream from exactly the same quality formula as in the past. Their only problem is to keep plenty on hand and this they do try to do.

Old Reliable dairy has built its continually growing business on quality. The milk they receive is from herds that more than meet all regulations. At the dairy every precaution is exercised to be certain that in pasteurization the delicate flavor is not destroyed and every bottle is carefully inspected after esterilization before being filled with milk that is above the standard the law requires.

Automobile dealers such as the H. I. Hine Motor Co., are making more than a serious effort to get their customers into the habit of having their cars lubricated more often than in the past.
Almost all automobiles today are very much used cars, with a great many more miles than the owner ever drove before and unless the motorists fully realize the extra attention an older car must have soon these cars will develop serious troubles.

First foods are due for home canning...

Now's the time to get busy!

Here's how to get rid of rationing headaches, cut your household food budget and make sure you'll have plenty of delicious fruits and vegetables next winter. Start now to home-can all you are able to buy or grow.

In 1944 our armed forces and allies will take 70% of the fruit pack and half the vegetable pack. There may be a shortage of some essential foods. Yet every member of your family needs two fruits and two vegetables daily—or a total of 90 quarts per person per year. Home canning is the answer. It's easy to understand, simple to carry through. Start your home canning with the delicious strawberries, cherries, rhubarb and other fruits and vegetables which are coming into the markets.

For complete information on canning, call the Home Service department of your Gas company.

In the race to fill the family larder, your dependable GAS RANGE can help put up foods for next winter. Follow directions carefully.

1. Select sound fruit at proper stage of ripeness and vegetables as fresh from garden as possible, and grade according to size and quality.
2. Clean all fruits or vegetables thoroughly before you start to can. Use only those that are firm and ripe.
3. Can them speedily—not more than two hours from garden to jar.
4. Once you've started, continue without interruption if possible. Foods spoil quickly in warm weather.
5. Follow canning directions closely as to length of time and method. This is important for best results.

A most comprehensive booklet on Home Canning prepared by experts, is yours for the asking. Just 'phone, write or call at your Gas company.

GRANDMOTHER'S BOND WITH THE FUTURE -WAR BONDS

.. for your grandchildren,
the best in the world!

ORDINARILY, age brings certain privileges. One of the greatest of them, perhaps, is that of watching, from the sidelines, the growth and progress of our children's families.

Certainly one of the rewards of being a mother is becoming a grandmother—able to enjoy our sons' and daughters' children to the full, while leaving the responsibility for them in other hands.

The war, which has changed so many things, has changed this too. When the war took our sons—when it broke up our children's homes—it gave back to America's grandmothers responsibilities which we had passed on long ago. The privilege of growing older quietly has been denied the women of our generation while this war lasts.

For today, our grandchildren need our help. And it is in our power to give them greater help, perhaps, than any grandparents ever gave before.

We can give this help by buying War Bonds and Stamps—for our children's children. And no other single thing that we can do will help so much, or in so many different ways.

Every dollar put into War Bonds now does many important jobs today—and will do many more in the future.

War Bonds can help to bring fighting fathers back to their families next year—the year after—as soon as possible. War Bonds can provide those families now with aid in case of illness or emergency. War Bonds can help assure an education for a boy whose father comes back crippled—or does not come back at all. War Bonds can help to guarantee a busy, prosperous America for our sons when they return—an America in which our grandsons can find all the opportunities they need to lead the fullest, happiest lives in all the world.

The Grandmothers' War Bond League is simply a way of recognizing and uniting the millions of American grandmothers who are today buying War Bonds and Stamps for their grandchildren. Every one who buys a Bond or Stamp in a grandchild's name automatically becomes a member.

Join the Grandmothers' War Bond League today!

The Grandmothers' League was founded by Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the Army Chief of Staff. It is not a formal club. It is simply a roll of honor which grandmothers automatically belong to when they buy bonds, or start stamp albums, for their grandchildren. Mrs. Marshall urges every grandmother in America to help the fighting men today . . . and their children tomorrow, by joining the Grandmothers' War Bond League.

Cleveland East Tech Walks Away With State Track Title

Salem's Only Points Won By Tony Hoover With His Second In Difficult Mile

By HAROLD HARRISON
COLUMBUS, May 29.—The biggest chunk of Ohio's 1944 spring high school sports championships can be found today in three of the state's four largest cities.

Cleveland, Columbus and Toledo swept five of the eight championships here Saturday. And still another title went to Little Orange just outside of Cleveland.

The new champions are Class A track—Cleveland East Shaw. Class B baseball—Reading. Golf team—Columbus North. Golf (individual)—Jack Carruthers of Columbus Upper Arlington. Tennis singles—Jack Pickering of Youngstown Raven.

Tennis doubles—Dave and Bob Brown of Toledo Devilbiss. The No. 1 attraction—the track meet—found Cleveland East Tech winning the Class A championship with ridiculous ease. It was the eleventh such title for the Carpenters and their sixth in a row. They grabbed off three firsts, four seconds, a third and two fourth to roll up 41 points. Columbus East was second with 26 and Lakewood third with 19½.

Orange's victory in the Class B meet was by the narrow margin of 21 to 17½ over Columbus University. Plainville was third with 161-5. Orange went into the mile relay, last event on the program, needing at least a third to win the championship and it did even better than that—winning the race—while Columbus University and Plainville had to sit out that affair.

Two state records were broken and two of the 1943 individual champions did a repeat act. Sylvester Stewart of Toledo Waite trimmed the Class A 880-yard run record from 1:58.5 to 1:58 in winning that race for the second straight year. Herman Hilty of Pandora lowered the Class B mile mark one-tenth of a second to 4:32.

Bill Bachman of Plainville was the only other athlete to successfully defend an individual championship. He won the Class B high jump, missing the state record by one A and a half inch.

TRIBE COPS HALF DOUBLE HEADER TO LEAVE LAST PLACE

Take One of Twin Bill With Philadelphia In Stadium

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, May 29.—Cleveland's Indians shook off their chronic case of ninth inning jitters long enough to divide a double-header with the Philadelphia Athletics at the stadium yesterday and pull themselves out of the American league basement.

The Tribe would have swept the twin bill but some of the season's worst infield play accounted for a 4 to 3 loss in the opener. The Redskins annexed the afterpiece 5 to 3 on Paul Calvert's fancy hurling chore and timely hitting by Roy Cullenbine and Oris Hockett.

The Indians, or rather Manager Lou Boudreau and Jimmy Grant, were guilty of six miscues during the long afternoon. Boudreau's throwing was so erratic in both games that when he finally made an accurate toss to Mickey Rocco in the sixth inning of the nightcap, the crowd gave him a derisive cheer.

The decisive run in the first game was unearned, being the product of the first of three errors committed by the Tribe pilot. The Indians hit the A's 9 to 6 but Jess Flores, the little Mexican, could be solved in the pinches. Steve Gromek, the first of four Cleveland hurlers, was charged with the defeat.

Paul Calvert aided his own cause by driving in the first run off Don Black in the third inning of the second game. The blow was a triple following Grand's single.

Duke Ace Looms As Court Queen

17-Year-Old Southpaw Is Burning Up Courts In College

AP Features
DURHAM, N. C.—You'll probably be hearing a lot this summer about Jean Rockey. She's a 17-year-old southpaw tennis player who's been burning up the courts at Duke university in preparation for national competition. But, actually, big time tennis is old stuff to Jean. She's rated No. 19 in the women's division. Right now she's having trouble finding competition.

Recently a campus-wide call went out for volunteers. Three boys reported for the slaughter, but they soon went back to their physical training classes for a rest. Though she scales 118 pounds, Jean practices three hours daily.

A native of Westfield, N. J., "The Rocket," as she is known on the campus, started playing at 11 and off-hand she can recall six cups, two medals and four other trophies that she's won outside of High school competition.

In the Eastern women's division last year, Jean pulled through a No. 11 rating. Also she teamed with Barbara Wilkins of New Rochelle, N. Y., to take down second place rating in the Eastern junior doubles.

Best Manager In Majors Is McCarthy, Grimm Says

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

AP Features
CHICAGO — Managers come and managers go for the Chicago Cubs, but colorful Charles Grimm is the only manager to play a return engagement.

"Der Kaptink" is the 23rd pilot since the club was organized in 1876. He took over at a time when the team was ensnared in a long losing streak which had caused the resignation of Jimmy Wilson.

Owner Phil K. Wrigley recalled the jolly 44-year-old Dutchman after dismissing him in 1938. It was one of the oddest about faces in baseball.

Grimm says his baseball background is filled with "luck."

"I had the advantage of playing with and for great master minds," he sums up. "First I was under Hugo Bezdek, then George Gibson and Bill McKechnie at Pittsburgh. Then I was traded to the Cubs and we had Bill Killefer, Rabbit Maranville, Gibson and Joe McCarthy as boss."

They all had different methods—but that McCarthy—I consider him tops. He took over a last place ball team and led it to the first division (fourth) in his first year (1926).

"I studied McCarthy tactics. He had a way of firing up his players. He never bawled a man out before other players, but called him into a private room and pointed out his mistakes. Everyone played like hell for him."

Grimm's history with the club is the strangest of all. On Aug. 2, 1932, front office differences led to the dismissal of Rogers Hornsby as manager and the appointment by William L. Veeck, then club president, of the gag-throwing, banjo-strumming Grimm as his successor.

The Dutchman inserted new life and the team won 15 out of 20 games in 1933. Grimm had guided the Bruins to the pennant in seven weeks. Under his direction they finished third in 1933 and 1934 then climbed to the championship in 1935 after a late 21-game winning streak, the high spot of Grimm's career. The team tied for second in 1936 and was runner-up in 1937 after blowing a seven game lead in one month's time.

Gets Confidence Vote
Grimm was given a vote of confidence in the form of a new contract, but he entered 1938 knowing that his job depended on a pennant. With the purchase of Dizzy Dean for $185,000 from the St. Louis Cardinals, the Cubs started the campaign in whirlwind fashion. But by July 20, they were 5½ games out of first place.

Wrigley then announced that Gabby Hartnett, a Cub catcher since 1922, had been named to succeed Grimm.

"Grimm has done a swell job," Wrigley said at the time, "but the club has not done as well as we felt it should."

Wrigley later was quoted as saying he was "sorry Grimm had gone" and that "I made a mistake."

The action severed Grimm's 13-year stay with the Cubs. One of the best fielding first basemen in baseball history, he first joined the Cubs in 1925 through a deal with Pittsburgh, where he had played six seasons. He began his career as a bat boy in the old St. Louis park. At the age of 17 he was signed by Connie Mack.

Grimm turned to baseball broadcasting after his release by Wrigley, and Hartnett finished the season by piloting the Cubs to the pennant. But the Cubs slipped to fourth in 1939 and fifth the next season. It was Hartnett's turn to be dismissed.

Grimm Becomes Boss
Jimmy Wilson, Cincinnati Reds' catcher and coach who starred in the 1940 world series, was chosen as Hartnett's successor. The Cubs finished sixth in 1941 and 1942 and wound up fifth last year. With the club mired under a nine-game losing streak this spring, Wilson replaced Ray "Hardrock" Johnson, Cub coach this year after 11 seasons of managerial background in minors, became temporary manager.

Then came Grimm. In 1941, Bill Veeck, Jr., son of the former president, and Grimm, acquired control of the Milwaukee Brewers. Grimm went along as field manager and part owner.

Under the Veeck-Grimm leadership, the Brewers prospered playing before 310,000 home fans in 1941 and becoming one of the most popular teams in the American Association. They captured the pennant last year for the first time since 1936.

Appeal To Crowd
Veeck and Grimm pulled such crowd-appeal stunts as serving bread-and-butter food to war workers at morning games, giving away butter

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Information, please? . . . About ten years ago, when the award for the leading hitter in minor league baseball was established the National association considered putting up similar trophies for scholastic baseball leaders. . . . But after learning how many headaches they could expect, the minor league bosses dropped the idea. . . . now this corner, with no prizes to hand out or axes to grind, would like to know who are this year's leading high school and college baseball performers. . . . To keep the field within bounds, how about nominations for the No. 1 men (or boys) in hitting, base stealing, pitching (both won, lost and earned run averages) and the best double-play combinations?

QUOTE, UNQUOTE

Casey Stengel: "The first few days in Milwaukee everybody gave me that limp hot poker grip and raised hell about Charley Grimm's departure. But after we won 10 in a row they began asking just once in awhile: 'I wonder what ever happened to Old Charley, anyway?'"

MONDAY MATINEE

Swede Hagberg, Navy grid coach, hasn't seen a football game in a year. . . . Did you know that Fred Merkle's famous "boner" not only cost the Giants (the 1908 pennant) but it also cost Christy Mathewson his only undisputed National league pitching championship? . . . Ed Reulbach won it that year with 24 victories and 17 losses. . . . If the Giants and Matty had won that game, Mathewson's record would have been 38 won, 10 lost for a .792 average to Reulbach's .774.

CHINESE FIGHT 4-FRONT WAR

Japs Threaten from North and East; Yanks Expand Schoutens Invasion

(By Associated Press)

China's armies fought desperately on four fronts today to thwart the most ambitious Japanese offensives in seven years of warring against the Chinese.

The Asiatic fighting overshadowed all other Pacific war fronts, including the progressing American invasion of the Schoutens, because it was the most ominous. Chungking authorities felt that China, beset in the north and east, may be entering its most critical period of the conflict.

Japanese troops pushed down the Hankow-Canton railroad to within 80 miles of Chanksha, a city the Chinese have seen fit to defend with great effort on three previous occasions, all successfully. Four enemy columns pushed southward toward Chanksha, apparently to gain full control of the rail line, which would help set up a great segment of China fronting on the Pacific.

Coupled with Japanese drives to win control of the Hankow-Peiping or northern section of the railway, the enemy objective could be to seal off all of eastern China—rich part of the country—against future Allied use as a base to bomb Japan.

U. S. Airmen Strafe Road

Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault's 14th U. S. airforce rushed into the Changsha fighting, strafing the road from Yoyang to Puchi, destroying trucks, troops, warehouses and barracks. Farther north his airmen attacked barracks at Singyang on the Hankow-Peiping section.

Fighting in Honan to the north raged on, at last report, but Chungking reports gave no new word on the Chinese counter-offensive. The Japanese crowded that in capturing Loyang, key rail city, they had dealt Allied plans for a China-based air offensive a mortal blow.

On a third front Chinese troops slogged through rain, fog, mud and sleet in Yunnan province, pursuing Japanese retreating toward the Burma frontier. The Chinese, aiming at a junction with Allied forces in Burmese Myitkyna, assaulted prepared mountain positions eight miles west of captured Tatanzu village. Stillwell's Chinese and Americans stormed into Myitkyna to within half a mile of the railway station. This was the first notable advance in days.

The Myitkyna battle was a vital part of the China battle, for Stillwell needs it to link the Ledo and Burma roads for a supply line into China.

On Biak island in the Schoutens American troops moved from captured Bosnek, principal port, to within two and a half miles of Mokmer airfield against increasing enemy fire.

DISCUSS ISSUES

also took issue with Dewey's press conference statement at Mackinac Island last September favoring a continued military alliance with Great Britain.

Dewey said he agreed with Bricker that issues should be discussed. When asked if that applied to a candidate about to be drafted as well as others, he smilingly replied: "That involves fortune telling, doesn't it?"

Bricker Leaves Door Open

As for the military alliance, which Bricker said he opposed, Dewey said his questioner should consult the record of his Mackinac press conference. This would show, he added, that his remark about an alliance with Great Britain was "considerably modified by including China and Russia."

He also emphasized his remark at Mackinac was informal and that he has since stated his position at great length formally—before the newspaper publishers' convention in New York recently. At that time he expanded the platform on which he ran for governor in 1942 and which called for international cooperation to keep peace by use of force if necessary.

Bricker expressed confidence in the outcome of his country-wide campaign, said he would have "many delegates" at convention time, and reiterated that he is not interested in the vice presidential nomination. But he left the door open to a second place nomination when he said:

"I wouldn't say I would or would not accept it."

Both Bricker and Dewey will address the governors' conference here and in Harrisburg, the state capital nearby.

BOMBERS RIP

to land in Sweden, Stockholm dispatches said.

Germany was on the alert almost continuously throughout the day. The "Achtung" warnings started clattering the enemy air waves a couple of hours after dawn and it was not until 4 p. m. that the enemy could assert that the Reich was "clear of enemy planes". Then, an hour later, the networks warned of "single enemy raiders over southwest Germany".

Other Liberators from Italy bombed two German troop concentrations in Yugoslavia in support of Marshal Tito's peasant army.

Extensive fires and explosions were recorded in fuel factories at Ruhland, Lutzendorf, Merseburg, Madgeburg and Zeitz. The German army tank and armored vehicle plants at Konigsborn suffered "heavy and extensive damage" with all principal buildings hit, the communique said.

Other damage was done by the 1,000 bombers and 1,200 convoying fighters at a Junkers aircraft factory at Leipzig; at Zwickau where rail yards and the airframe were bombed; at the Brandis-Polenz airfield near Leipzig; and at the railroad yards east of Berlin at Frankfurt and at Cologne.

In the first reported tactical operation of the day, a big force of American Martin and Marauder medium bombers and A-20 Havoc light bombers attacked four bridges in northern France and Belgium and the Achiut airfield north of Paris. One bridge was over the Meuse at Liege-Val-Nenot. Thunderbolts escorted the bombers.

German reports said the bombers still were attacking five hours after the first alarms were sounded. At 3 p. m. the Nazi radio said "battle formations are striking toward northwest and western Germany and fighter formations from northwest Germany are approaching west Germany." It was not until 4 p. m. that the enemy reported the Reich free of Allied planes.

FIFTH ARMY

Liri river, the Eighth army pushed west and north. Throwing bridges rapidly across the Liri and Sacco rivers, where the enemy had blown up crossings, Lt. Gen. Sir Oliver Leese's troops swept westward six miles from Caprano to Pofi.

To the north, in the area of Arce at the junction of Highways 6 and 82, the surrounded the towering Monte Oreo, dominating Arce and surrounded Santo Padre, four and a half miles northeast.

From the beachhead Fifth army troops met stubborn resistance every inch of the way in their drive to crack the Anzio-Albano highway, down which the Germans poured vicious attacks last February, and past the Aprilia highway, railroad and factory area, scene of much of the bloodiest fighting since the beachhead was established.

A prisoner of war said the Germans had used tanks as artillery in recent fighting.

15,000 Prisoners Taken

Further Nazi reinforcements appeared, in addition to elements of the Hermann Goering 92nd division which until recently had been in a rest area north of Rome.

It was officially reported that the German 71st, 94th and 715th divisions already had been virtually destroyed out of the 18 divisions which the Germans had committed to the battle south of Rome.

The Fifth and Eighth armies have taken more than 15,000 prisoners in the present offensive.

THEY'RE SMILING, BUT ABOUT WHAT?

ADOLF HITLER gives his co-"master-mind," Benito Mussolini, a warm welcome at a railway station during the latter's visit to the Nazi chieftain. The smiles could be questioned, but we are aware it does take less muscular action to smile than to frown—probably they are both just plain tired! The photo received in the U. S. via a neutral source shows Mussolini's serious loss of weight. (International) town of Frosinone and from there another highway, and also a railroad, run a bit northward and then turn towards Rome above via Cassina. This Frosinone thoroughfare also divides after a bit, providing still another avenue which ultimately winds in towards Rome.

Thus the wily Kesselring won't be cut off even if he loses Via Cassina. However, that is his chief avenue for withdrawal not only of troops but of mountains of equipment. So while he may be able to save many of his soldiers, he already has lost heavily through death and capture, and his losses in materiel already are grave.

Kesselring's problem is to disengage and retreat in fact of strong enemy pressure without catastrophe. Thus far he appears to have done a business-like job. However, neither his undoubted skill nor that of any other man could evade the havoc being caused in this retreating column by the Allied airforce which controls the sky and is constantly hammering the roadways.

ENTHUSIASM HIGH FOR YOUTH CENTER

If enthusiasm by the youths themselves is going to make the Salem Youth center a success, it's already a cinch. At least that is the way it looked Saturday when some 40 high school students went to work in the rooms of the Arbaugh building, where the center is being established.

Herbert Brown, high school basketball coach and teacher and acting-president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, supervised the work of the youngsters Saturday.

Original plans for the day's work embodied moving some furniture stored in the rooms to another part of the building. The "teen-agers,"

Methodists to Transfer Main Office To Columbus

COLUMBUS, May 29.—The Ohio Methodist conference voted today to transfer headquarters of Methodism in the state to Columbus from Cincinnati and change the name to the Ohio area.

The move was suggested in 1940 when Kentucky was removed from the area, known as the Cincinnati area. It embraces both the Ohio and northeast Ohio conferences.

The change must be approved by the church's jurisdictional conference, which meets June 29 at Minneapolis.

The conference authorized purchase of a home here for Bishop H. Lester Smith, head of the area, who will change his episcopal residence.
